Why Back-Up Care?

Back-Up Care is an employee benefit that supports your employees with all types of family care when their regular care arrangements break down, or when their care needs to flex and adapt.

Back-Up Care can support flexible working and inclusion as a creative way to plug care gaps such as school holidays, or making a hybrid schedule more adaptable.

How does it work?

We all know life doesn't go according to plan, especially when juggling work and family responsibilities. We all have busy lives, and many of us live and work away from close family, so relying on relatives to step in has become less of an option.

When an employer brings Back-Up Care into their workplace, the employees each receive a number of Back-Up Care days, (typically 10 - 15 days), to access alternative forms of care when needed to meet the responsibilities of work.

When care arrangements break down or need to change, employees either climb stressful mountains to make it happen or end up missing work. Everyone loses.

Giving your employees access to high-quality, dependable child, adult and elder care not only enables your people to work – but also encourages the kind of focus that fuels engaged workforces and creative ideas. Everyone wins.

An average of 8 working days a year are lost due to care break downs, without a back-up plan.

An evolution from just reducing absenteeism to a focus on wellbeing

We have seen many leading employers transition in recent times towards viewing back-up care as a wellbeing provision: Virtual tutoring can be incorporated into a Back-Up Care Programme alongside our many types of care.

This goes much further than simply avoiding absence. It empowers employees to be fully 'present' at work when their children's care and education worries are understood and addressed.

Pre-Pandemic	Today
Work and family care were consistent and defined	Work is fluid, but children need routines
Dependant care benefits often focused on infants and preschoolers	Parents of school-age children need an equal amount of support
Back-Up Care covered emergencies	Flexible care solutions provide a greater range of support options

Why do employers invest in Back-Up Care?

Back-Up Care removes obstacles and reduces stress for your busy people, while helping them to perform and progress. It supports them to deliver their work, and feel well, even as their life circumstances change and develop.

With our post-pandemic awareness, being family-friendly means understanding that for a working parent or carer, your employee's wellbeing is directly linked with the wellbeing of their loved-ones.

How does Back-Up Care work?

We have the largest network of providers across the UK and Republic of Ireland.

- Our nannies are qualified, experienced and referenced, with enhanced DBS checks and first aid practising certificates to ensure the highest level of service quality.
- Our Nursery provision includes 300+ Bright Horizons Day Nurseries and Preschools, including four exclusive nurseries on Canary Wharf.
- As well as being regulated by Ofsted and other appropriate regulatory bodies, the majority of our providers have been used and recommended by individual parents and carers.
- Effective Back-Up Care needs to be trusted. Our team of care consultants provide a high level of customer service in understanding the employees' specific needs and providing reassurance at all stages of the registration, booking and follow up process.

1. Registration

We recommend that employees register with the service as soon as they can, rather than waiting until they need to use it. This means that when a care breakdown occurs there is one less thing to worry about, and also means that all the necessary information about the family is already safely recorded and will make requesting care a quicker process.

2. Booking Care

Booking care is a simple, streamlined process – we use the latest technology to ensure that your employees receive the care they need, when they need it. Employees can book care either online, by phone or via our mobile Back-Up Care booking app, available on iPhone and Android. Booking an instance of care can be carried out up to one month in advance (a shorter booking window can be agreed if required). Some clients also provide a longer booking window (up to 3 months) to allow for more flexible use of backup as a planning tool.

3. Post-care delivery feedback survey

Each time a family uses Back-up Care we email them a brief survey, so that we can measure their satisfaction levels with the service. We ask them about not just the care provided but their whole experience of booking the care, from speaking with the Care Consultants onwards. The information we receive from families helps us to make continual improvements and ensures that we are meeting the needs of all our users.

4. The Employee Experience

- Employees contact our 24/7 service when they have a need for care
- Our highly-trained Care Consultants make the appropriate arrangements and we support them to ensure that they receive an excellent experience – this experience is then measured through collecting feedback and shared with the employer

“There are sometimes circumstances where you need to be in two places at once, but it’s not just not possible. The provision of Eldercare meant I had one less thing to worry about and I felt safe and assured that my father was being cared for by a professional.”
